You know they are. Calumet is sure—never fails. That's economy. And true economy—in cost—in use—in time.

One trial will prove it and show you in results why millions of shrewd, thrifty housewives prefer Calumet to all other brands.

EGGS AND ICE CREAM FOR BOYS IN ARMY

(City Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Eggs in any style. Ice cream of any quality and an American woman to serve them—that sums up the requirements necessary to keep the American soldier happy overseas now that he has finished the job for which he left home judging from letters received by the women's canteen division of the Young Men's Christian Association. If the American woman is there, the soldier will forego if necessary the eggs and the ice cream. More than 100 women are now overseas in "Y" uniform, it is announced.

Mrs. Rebecca Ely, of New York, who was sent to France in the latter part of 1917, tells a story that begins with one boy bringing her a present to show his appreciation of many things she had done for him. "You must promise to eat this all yourself, Mrs. Ely," he said. It was a surprise.

"The surprise proved to be what was a rare treat in France—a half dozen fresh eggs. Eggs were then being sold, when any one was lucky enough to get them at all, at 12 francs a dozen. Mrs. Ely went back to the barracks carrying the eggs. An orderly met her and said that a sick officer was asking for her, and would she please come. She went and found a very depressed patient.

"What's the use, Mrs. Ely? You couldn't give me what I want," grumbled the officer, in reply to her questions.

"Maybe I could; try and see." "Nope, they don't grow in these parts. The only thing I really want is a couple of poached eggs. That's what I would have if I were home." "All right," said Mrs. Ely, producing her treasures to a very astonished young man. "How would some tea go with the order?"

So for three days she made tea and poached eggs on toast for him with her own hands, just as he would have them at home. At the end of that time he was so much better and more cheerful that he was able to mess in the barracks.

There was another time at Bel ford, when an orderly brought Mrs. Ely word that a dying soldier wanted to see her. When she went to the bedside she found a boy she had often served at mess.

"I wish I had some ice cream," came a pleading voice from a parched throat.

Now ice cream was an impossible thing in that part of France. But Mrs. Ely said he should have some. She made a boiled custard and froze it by the skillful use of a pail of frozen water she found. And how good it tasted to that American boy when she fed it to him.

"Please make me some more to-morrow," he said.

He died that night. The sick soldier is very much like a little boy, and he longs for the little attentions his mother would give him. So that is what this woman and hundreds more of them have done—been mothers to them.

OUTBREAK OF TYPHUS AFFECTS BOYS IN SIBERIA

(Correspondence Associated Press)

VLADIVOSTOK, Dec. 18.—To combat an outbreak of typhus at Nikol'sk, which has assumed dangerous proportions, the Inter-Allied sanitary commission has decided to establish a hospital there with a capacity of 200 beds. The epidemic is the result of the coming to Nikol'sk of Bolshevik and political prisoners a month ago from Samara. A number of cases were found among the prisoners when the American Red Cross investigated and started relief work. Since then they have multiplied until the situation has become one of concern to the allied forces in Siberia.

Dr. Seltschikoff, surgeon of the military hospital in Nikol'sk, will be placed in charge of the proposed hospital and the Red Cross will supervise the establishment. Dr. F. R. Mangert, director of the Red Cross medical bureau in eastern Siberia, who has just returned from Nikol'sk, reported 120 cases of the disease already developed. He estimated the cost of establishing the hospital at $20,000, and it has been agreed that the allies would each bear a share.

Dr. Joshua Rossett, director of the anti-typhus expedition which is about to leave Vladivostok for the west, has proceeded in advance to Nikol'sk to arrange for carrying out the new hospital project.
